Run your business with less paperwork.

Your business gets a website of its own — your name, your logo and your photographs — free, and free for good. When you are ready, the same site opens a private portal for your clients, quote requests, the books and the mail, so the business runs from one place instead of a folder of spreadsheets. See a working business at jonesbrothers.aviumclubs.com.

A business's home page — Jones Brothers Lawn & Garden, a sample business: its clients, work and figures are examples.

THE WEBSITE · FREE

Your work, and a way to ask

What you offer and when, photos of your work, and a Request a Quote form that lands with the office.

THE PORTAL

Every client

Where each client is, what the crew does there and when, and whether they are getting your email.

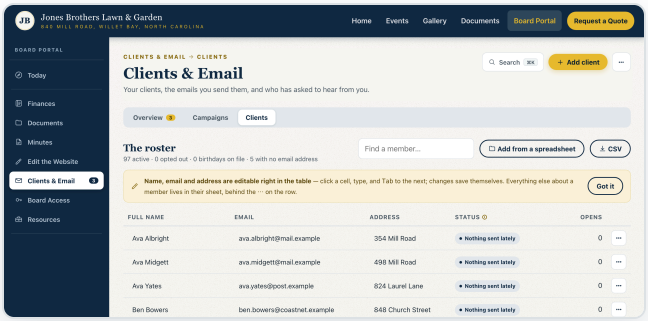

THE PORTAL

The books

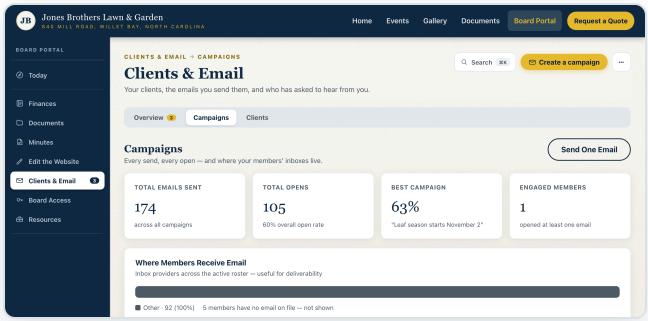

Income and costs month by month, the budget beside what actually happened, and every entry in one register.

THE PORTAL

The clients and the money, in one place

Clients. Every client and where they are, in one list.

Email. How many each message reached, and who opened it.

Every client, remembered

Open any client and there is everything you keep about them — where they are, what the crew does there and when. Quote requests from the website wait on the morning screen until somebody answers them, and seasonal news goes to every client on your own letterhead.

HOW IT STARTS

1 Your site, ready to go

We put your business online at yourbusiness.aviumclubs.com, with your name and logo — and check every page stays readable.

2 Your office signs in

Each person with their own password, and only the parts their job needs.

3 Your client list

Send us the spreadsheet you keep today, and we load it before your first morning on it.
