CLUBS

Run your club like a business.

Your club gets a website of its own — your name, your logo and your photographs — free, and free for good. When the board is ready, the same site opens a private portal that keeps the books, checks people in at events and writes to the members, so the club runs from one place instead of a folder of spreadsheets. See a working club at demo.aviumclubs.com.

A club's home page — Seagrass Shag Club, a sample club: its logo, members and events are examples.

THE WEBSITE · FREE

Events and photographs

A calendar the board keeps current, a photo gallery where nothing goes public until a board member approves it, and a Become a Member form.

THE BOARD PORTAL

The club's books

The treasurer's register, budget against actual — green, amber or red at a glance — and reports ready to print for the meeting.

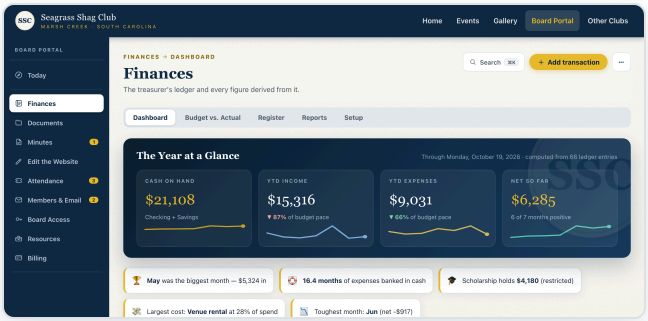

THE BOARD PORTAL

Email to the members

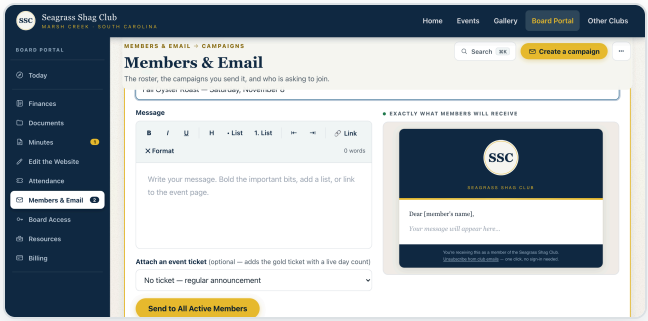

Announcements on the club's own letterhead, birthday wishes that send themselves, and an honest count of who received them.

THE BOARD PORTAL

The money and the members, in one place

Finances. Every figure comes from the treasurer's own register.

Email. On the right, exactly what members will receive.

Every message on your club's own letterhead

Announcements, birthday wishes and the morning-after note go out with the club's seal, name and colors at the top — and the board sees exactly what members will receive before anything is sent. It is how a club writes to its members with a professional edge.

HOW IT STARTS

1 Your site, ready to go

We put your club online at yourclub.aviumclubs.com, with your name and logo — and check every page stays readable.

2 Your officers sign in

Each with their own password, and only the parts of the club their job needs.

3 Your own address

Keep the free one, or ask for a .com of your own, with your own colors — we register it and connect it.
